COURSE OVERVIEW

Dynamic World History is a required one-year course designed to help students with significant cognitive disabilities who are anticipated to earn a high school diploma in accordance with California Education Code 51225.31, access core content aligned subject matter material.

This course begins 1750, then covers a period of more than 250 years and highlights the global history as people, products, knowledge, and ideas increasingly spread around the world. It examines dynamic forces such as democracy, nationalism, and economic competition and how these forces impacted the modern world. The course also considers the themes of war and conflict resolution, inclusiveness of governance, the concept of justice, and the growing importance of individual rights and liberties. The course ends with the evolution of a global society. Throughout the course, students develop reading, writing, speaking, and listening skills to enhance their understanding of the content. Students will gain an appreciation of history and become more informed citizens in their community, country, and the world. This course seeks to present non-European perspectives, primary sources, and texts as a means of shifting the narrative.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

The course provides students with a broader understanding of the modern world through a range of perspectives and sources. Students will understand how various global societies operated in 1750 and will become critical thinkers about the impact European and other global societies had on each other in the following centuries.

Inquiry:

- Teachers and students identify and discuss the unit and lesson focus questions as well as the connection between these questions and the themes of the course (cascading inquiry). • Inquiries are open-ended, allow for multiple answers, and require students to generate an argument supported by evidence (primary and/or secondary).
- Students ask meaningful questions as they explore and interpret primary and secondary sources in order to construct their own historical interpretations.

Literacy:

- Students will develop historical thinking and analysis skills through exposure to different perspectives on the same topic in several primary and secondary sources.
- Students practice critical thinking through the regular use of writing and structured academic conversations utilizing academic and discipline-specific language.

Citizenship:

- Students make connections between course topics and the contemporary world.
- Students are encouraged to take evidence-supported positions, backed by well-constructed arguments and informed by historical understanding, on contemporary events.
- Students are empowered to make their voices heard in their immediate community and beyond.

Skills:

- Sequencing and Using a Timeline
- Analyzing Historical Evidence
- Interpreting Graphics (Cartoons, photos, maps, charts, graphs, etc.)
- Analyzing Sources
- Determining Cause and Effect
- Identifying Bias and Point of View
- Locating Turning Points in History
- Evaluating the credibility of sources (print, digital, electronic)
- Speaking and listening and interpreting (academic discussion, presentation, etc)
- Collaborating constructively on team and group projects.
