These small group meetings helped students who were struggling to use real life situations to practice some of the tools and skills that we had worked on in the class room, as well as establishing goals, practicing thoughtful problem-solving and turning negative situations around.

Teaching, implementing and reinforcing School Climate Expectations
-- Ideas that involve both Staff and Students

1. 5-10 min. video that can be shown in the classroom. Video will feature short edited cuts of students and staff discussing what PHMS school climate means to them (what are their expectations for how we should conduct ourselves on campus? What is important to them about school climate and why?) These short video interviews would be shot in hallways, classrooms, gym, and lunchroom etc. using Iphone and edited together in Imovie.
2. Make school climate expectations more visible - Integrate Climate Committee expectations (whether that's "be Kind be Helpful Work hard," or something else) into as many parts of Pleasant Hill Middle School as possible, including (but not limited to) Printed materials, office passes, signs.
  - Bright, Visually pleasing posters
  - Visual prompts for school climate expectations. What do the words in our school climate expectations mean? How do they know when they are being kind or not? How do you work hard when something is truly difficult?Examples:

3. Ongoing classroom dialog - Class meetings/discussions/projects based around school climate
  - School climate artwork that can be displayed on campus that is student generated.
  - Thought experiment/writing assignment that has to do with aspects of school climate goals
  - Upper grade students spending time with 6th grade classes doing climate related projects, games or team building exercises.
  - A school-wide competition designed to generate artwork for posters.
4. More opportunities for Students to interact with staff with a non-academic focus – Possibly during lunch or afterschool, or even during normally scheduled classes
  - Classroom Swap – teachers swap classes or go out and do some kind of fun project with a group of students they wouldn't ordinarily come in contact with during the school year.
5. School year Climate group – a group of students, staff, and possibly even parents or community members that meets during school year to generate and implement school-climate related goals and plans.
